Release Date: 6/10/08

Western Excelsior has updated westernexcelsior.com to include new features and information for specifiers, distributors and all visitors to the site. Browse the site to view the new options available.

First, sales contact information is now directly available for each of the four Western Excelsior U.S. sales regions. Simply click on the Sales Contact link on the navigation bar (left hand side) to view the sales representative information.

Second, a database or regulatory approvals has been developed to provide a list of all Western Excelsior products approved by various agencies. Further, standard specifications including ECTC and FHWA are incorporated to provide a listing of all Western Excelsior products meeting each category. The Regulatory Approvals database is available by rolling over the Technical Resources or Contractor Resources button and selecting Regulatory Approvals.

A warehouse of Western Excelsior's educational series (E³C) has been made available from the Technical Resources or Contractor Resources button as well. These documents have been separated from other documents on the site for quick reference to the educational content therein.

Finally, documentation has been added to provide more information to the end user. MSDS sheets and CSI formatted specifications have been uploaded. Both documents may be found on individual product pages. Additionally, CSI formatted specifications may also be found within the Design and Use section of the Technical Resources page.
